NEWS:

When I last updated this calendar at the end of May, I was expecting that we would be getting close to normal by now, but the delta variant has put a monkey wrench into those plans. Still, there are some in-person activities happening, and there are still some great online opportunities as well.

Always check the venue or organizer's website for last minute changes.

Highlights:

In person:

* The Freight is opening this week! Vaccination & masks required (policies apply to outdoor jams as well as inside events). see <https://thefreight.org/shows/health-and-safety/>.

- Laurie Lewis & Friends - Bill Monroe birthday show Fri 9/10
- Tony Phillip's oldtime jam (outdoors) starts Sun 9/12
- Richard Brandenburg's bluegrass/country jam Sun 9/26
- BOTMC concerts & pre-concert jams 9/23 & 9/24
- BOTMC workshops - register through the Freight, but these will take place outdoors in various Berkeley locations.

* BOTMC 9/23-9/26. See <https://www.berkeleyoldtimemusic.org/> for latest information, as things could change. Concerts tickets (including streaming passes) & workshop registration are now on sale at the Freight website. Registration for the stringband contest & the Sat a.m. online kids concert with Bayou Seco are now open.

At the moment, the Thurs & Fri Freight concerts will be both in person and streamed (streaming passes available on the ticket purchase page); the workshops will happen outdoors in various locations in Berkeley - address will be given with registration (register through the Freight website). The Saturday night Cajun dance, a flatfoot clogging workshop with Evie Ladin, and the Sat morning kids concert with Bayou Seco will be online. Outdoor events include the stringband contest, pre-concert jams at the Freight, and Ohlone Park. See <https://www.berkeleyoldtimemusic.org/schedule> for details.

* Santa Clara Valley Fiddlers Association - 1st Sunday of the month (next Oct 3) - Rose Garden Park San Jose. The slow jam will be broadcast on Facebook Live.

* Santa Barbara Old-Time Fiddlers' Festival Campout Lake Cachuma Oct 8-10 2021

<http://fiddlersfestival.org/>

Online:

* BOTMC Slow Jam Fizz. The next one is this Friday 9/10 4pm with Eric & Suzy Thompson. Starting in October, these will be twice a month (2nd & 4th Friday) at a slightly later time 5:30pm, with Greg & Jere Canote on Oct 8. on Zoom & YouTube archives on YouTube
see <https://www.berkeleyoldtimemusic.org/slow-jam-fizz> for details, including information on joining the email list to receive the Zoom links.

* American Banjo Camp online this weekend Sept 11 & 12. Two days of bluegrass & old-time banjo workshops. A bit on the pricey side IMO ($100 each day or $180 for both days) but it works out to ~$25 per workshop, and well worth it. I'm excited to see Stephen Wade as one of the instructors - he's a gold mine of information on players and playing styles.
<http://www.americanbanjocamp.com/>

* Fiddle Hell Nov 4-7. 175 workshops, 35 concerts, 35 jams. Recordings available until March 2022. I attended this last April and thought it wonderful.
<https://www.fiddlehell.org/>

* El Cerrito Free Folk Festival will be online Sat Oct 23.

* SFFMC Camp Harmony (end of December) will be online again this year, as Walker Creek will not be open until after the new year.

Key to the calendar section:

I have tried (though not 100% successfully) to standardize the status of an event by the way the date is listed:

* If you see a date for 2021, then the event is happening, either online or in person. I have added "Online" to the event name if it is online. I suggest checking the website for latest status, especially for events that are planned for in-person, as that status could change.

* If you see a date for 2022, that event has definitely been postponed (at least according to its website)

* If you see a month without a year, I found no definitive information on the website, but I would suggest you assume that the event is canceled for 2021 unless you find out otherwise.
